Refer to the exhibit.

HQ_MRGL is assigned to the HQ IP phones. BR_MRGL is assigned to the BR IP phones. The remote site BR IP phones support only the G.711 codec. Where should the transcoder reside?

- A. A transcoder is not needed. The HQ phones will automatically change over to the G.711 codec.
- B. The transcoder should be assigned to its own MRG, which should then be assigned to the default device pool.
- C. The transcoder should reside at the BR site and assigned to BR_MRGL.
- D. The transcoder should reside at the HQ site and assigned to HQ_MRGL.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION: 2

The figure given below demonstrates the communication model for a project. What role does the component D play in the communication model?

- A. Medium
- B. Transporter
- C. Encoder
- D. Sender

Answer: A

Explanation:

The phone lines are the medium between the sender/encoder and the decoder/receiver. The communication model shows the traversal of information between two hosts, known as the sender and the receiver. The key components of the model are as follows: Encode: It is used to crypt or code the message into a language that is understood by others. Decode: It is used to decrypt the message back into the meaningful codes. Message and feedback message: It is the output of encoding. Noise: It is referred to anything, which interferes with the transmission and understanding of the message. Medium: It is the method used to convey the message. In the communication process, it is the duty of the sender to send clear and complete information to the receiver so that it is properly received by the receiver, and for confirming that it is properly understood. The duty of the receiver is to make sure that the information received is understood and acknowledged properly. A failure in communication can negatively impact the project. Answer option A is incorrect. The sender is the person sending the message. Answer option C is incorrect. The encoder is the outgoing fax machine. Answer option D is incorrect. The transporter is not part of the communication model.

NEW QUESTION: 3

A company maintains about 300 TB m Amazon S3 Standard storage month after month. The S3 objects are each typically around 50 GB m size and are frequently replaced with multipart uploads by their global application. The number and size of S3 objects remain constant but the company's S3 storage costs are increasing each month.

How should a solutions architect reduce costs in this situation?

- A. Configure S3 inventory to prevent objects from being archived too quickly
- B. Enable an S3 Lifecycle policy that deletes incomplete multipart uploads
- C. Switch from multipart uploads to Amazon S3 Transfer Acceleration
- D. Configure Amazon CloudFront to reduce the number of objects stored in Amazon S3

Answer: D
